Discover Your Number

Below are the three steps of the Discover Your Number (DYN) Process. As you engage with each step, circle the numbers that resonate most with you, the ones that feel like, "Yes, that feels like it is describing me." You may even want to put an "X" through the ones that do not feel like they are describing you! This will help you keep track of which numbers feel most like you as you take each successive step. You can even use the space beside each number to make some notes. Sometimes, people like to record their thoughts or feelings about a number as they go or even make a note of someone else they know that sounds "just like that!"And remember: You may find at the end of this process that you still have more than one number that feels like a good fit. And that's okay! Part of the Discover Your Number Process is learning that we have a little bit of every number within us and learning about each number along the way will help you understand yourself even more. Enjoy the process!
